

TWO FELLAS

a 52x3min CGI multi-platform animated series
A comedy about Two Fellas, a Couch and a TV.....

Format: 52x3min Multi-Platform (iPod, Videophone, HDTV, Standard Def.)

Genre: Comedy

Style: CGI Animation

Original Language: English

Distribution: Available Worldwide excluding Canada

Rating: Family (Tween/Teen/Adult)

Budget: $3 Million CDN

Status: In Development

theskonkworks™
INCORPORATED

TWO FELLAS

Green and Yellow, not just your ordinary king sofa bachelors! They're inspired by the oddness of the average life that goes on around them. What prompts their thought processes? Who knows? The lads love a good earth shattering chat. They manage it, but goodness only knows how. "Two Fellas" is a CGI satirical comedy about two habitual mates whose 'enlightened' conversations are about, well nothing in particular, aimed at anybody who loves a good laugh!

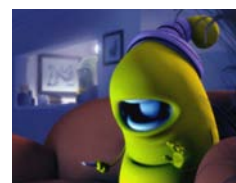

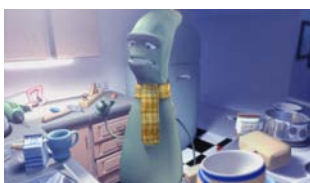

The Pitch:

"Two Fellas" is a lighthearted look at what unifies us as a human species; TELEVISION! Journey into the lives of two habitual "couch potatoes"; Yellow and Green, whose 'enlightened' conversations while channel surfing are a challenge for everyone to follow! The mundane and the sublime nature of everyday life is played out in a comedy that personifies our notion of what goes on in living rooms worldwide when the TV is turned on.

The Straight Goods:

This is a series that focuses on microcosmic nonsensical discussions between two permanent fixtures on a sofa. Whether it's a discussion about breakfast cereal or nuclear physics, Yellow and Green try to decipher the "meaning of life" while constantly in search of that elusive television program. Two Fellas is a comedy parodying the need to commune with what some have called the "other family member", while still engaging in the mundane for our amusement.

Two Fellas is a true character driven comedy disguised as what seems on the surface to be a boring existence. Simple character and set designs help to focus the audience. Highly skilled animation, delivery and witty dialogue propel this show beyond the typical animation fare, into an engaging verbal sparring between two pals in search of their favourite TV shows. The exchange is endearing to any audience as everyone can find some commonality with Yellow and Green. This keeps them laughing in their seats.

The Format:

Specifically written and designed as a multi-platform series, Two Fellas is uniquely positioned to be a mobile series while retaining the high level of quality and sophistication of broadcast television.

The characters are simple but highly expressive, always maintaining the one and two shot camera framing for maximum character impact on screen. Specifically scripted and storyboarded for the small and large screen, the creativeness translates equally well into HD broadcast and mobile format.

The sets are simple but expressive blending into the story without overpowering the true stars. Day or night, the characters live by the glow of their third roommate; the TV. The use of CGI film-like lighting and rendering techniques bump this series into Feature Film quality without sacrificing the budget or production schedule.

Rendered in HD and converted to iPod, Videophone and Standard Definition, Two Fellas is a comedy on a grand scale presented wherever you might be.